Executive Office.

Santa Fe, N. M.

Whereas, The Cattle Sanitary Board of the Territory of New Mexico, on March 26th, 1908, adopted a resolution placed before it by W. C. McDonald to the effect that the said board request the Governor of New Mexico to issue a call for a convention of live stock growers in the Territory of New Mexico to be held in the city of Albuquerque in October, 1908; and

Whereas, the leading live stock men of the Territory have joined in such a request; and

Rich Gold Mine in Mexico Rediscovered.

A Casas Grandes, Mexico, dispatch says: After being hidden for centuries, the Tyopa gold mine, which was worked at one time by Jesuits before they were massacred and driven from the mine of fabulous wealth, according to report, has been rediscovered by a Mexican and excitement is high at Temosachic.

The famous Tyopa mine, according to mining men in this vicinity, was recently claimed by a Mexican, who has heretofore claimed that he had located the hidden treasure which was sealed up by the Jesuits, but until the past few days little importance has been given to the report, but at this time, it is stated, a fight is on between Col. W. C. Greene and friends of the Mexican to retain possession.

The mine is situated in the Guaynopa district, on Col. W. C. Greene's concession from the Mexican government, and, according to telephone messages from Temosachic, Col. Greene now has an engineer and party of men on the site to secure possession.

Friends of the Mexican, it is said, have presented the matter to acting governor Sanchez and Enrique Creel, of Chihuahua, and is it further said that the authorities at this time are inclined to favor the Mexican, regardless of Col. Greene's acreage concession.

The Tyopa, of silverite gold ore, is situated three miles northeast of the old Guaynopa forts, and few sacks of ore from the rich veins of this mine, it is said, will provide a man with sufficient money so he will not have to work during the remainder of his life.

It is the same class of ore which created excitement and started the boom in Cripple Creek, according to mining men, and the attitude of the Mexican authorities toward Col. Greene, and the reports regarding the find of the lost treasure are keeping the mining camps in a furore.

Curious Relic.

E. W. Halpin accountant at Jones, Downes & Co., has a curious historical relic in the shape of the bill of sale for a negro girl sold to his grandfather, Eric Wallin, in Mississippi in ante-bellum days, says the Silver City Enterprise. Mr. Halpin's grandfather was a large and wealthy slave holder before the war and among the papers left by him upon his death was the document above referred to. It reads:

"Issaquena County, Miss., Aug. 23, 1858. For and in consideration of the sum of Eight Hundred Dollars, to us in hand paid by Eric W. Wallin, of Vicksburg, Miss., the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, we have this day, sold and delivered to said Eric W. Wallin, a negro girl named Vena, aged 10 years, hereby warranting the said negro to be sound in both mind and body and to be a slave for life. We also agree and warrant to defend the title to said slave against all and every claim whatsoever.

Witness our hands and seal this day and year aforesaid.

JOHN STEWART.
HENRY C. DINGY.
